

Hilton 2019

Press Corps

Committee Overview

Press Corps provides you with a special opportunity to act as a journalist reporting on the events and activities of other committees participating in the conference. Each journalist will attend committee sessions of their choice to report on.

In order to write a well-constructed article on committee activities, each journalist is required to take notes at the committee sessions that they attend. Once the journalist has written an article, it will be edited by the chair, and published in a news publication contributed to by Press Corps as a whole. By the end of the conference, each journalist will have written and published at least five articles on the happenings of different committees along with one miscellaneous article of their choice.

Please email me with your top three choices for news publications you'd like to represent—we do our best to represent a wide range of global perspectives, so choose publications from various nations around the world. Please refrain from choosing any that are located in the United States. Also, please bring a writing utensil and paper to committee. I look forward to reading your articles!

Chair

Sierra Bornheim | spbornheim@gmail.com

My name is Sierra Bornheim and this is my second time chairing. I am a senior at Pittsford Sutherland where I am the captain of the sailing team. I also participate in FIRST Robotics Team 3181, where I am the Project Manager and Drive Coach. In addition, I enjoy paleontology fieldwork and fossil preparation. I am so excited for Hilton, and please feel free to email me with any questions when you send me your preferred publications.
